4.

5. During the period from 3 to 31 March, 118 trucks were counted on the parking lot for damaged vehicles or came in for repair.
 The vehicles turned in needed only minor repairs. (5)
6. On 25 March, members of the depot administration from Schoeneweide inspected the Zeesen plant. The 7-year contract for the main motor vehicle repair shop on the premises of the former IAC in Schoeneweide expires this year and will allegedly not be renewed. The reason for the inspection of the Zeesen plant allegedly was to determine whether the Schoeneweide main repair plant could be transferred to Zeesen. (6)
7. In mid-March, Major Makarov (fnu) stated that the amount of work would considerably increase in May 1952. Nineteen lathe operators who had been given notice in mid-March were not discharged. (3) and (7)
8. Major Makarov (fnu) returned from leave on 28 March and on the same day, Makarov and three fitters from the plant had to go to Thuringia to install new packings in new tank trucks which had arrived there. He took 180 packings. (7)

- (2) The volume of incoming and outgoing shipments is at the same level as that in the preceding month. []

25X1A

- (3) The decrease in the strength of personnel is a seasonal fluctuation.

25X1A

[] The volume of vehicles needing repair will rise with the beginning of the summer maneuvers. Additional personnel will be hired or, at least, there will be no more discharges.

- (4) The shipments of new motor vehicles from the U.S.S.R. to Zeesen and Berlin-Oberschoeneide has repeatedly been reported from the Frankfurt/Oder crossing point.
- (5) As about 1,300 new motor vehicles have arrived under the replacement program which started in February 1952, the movability and combat readiness of Soviet units has been improved.
- (6) Since the former MAC, Oberschoeneide, was made a SAC, it is doubtful that it will be returned to German authorities.
- (7) Major Hazarov (fnu) is commandant, and Major Makarov (fnu), deputy commandant, of the depot at Zeesen.
